CATALOGUE ESSAY

The Lady Beat features an off-center dial and slimmer case with a much smaller diameter than other watches in the collection. A highlight of the front of the watch is the visible triplet of bridges echoing the pocket watch inspiration behind Caliber ALA20, just one of many mechanical elements visible on the dial. A crescent-shaped plate that shares the lower part of the watch with the mechanical elements, with a full moon-shaped small second at the top. The 38 mm case diameter of Lady Beat is a first at Armin Strom, conforming to the sizing “sweet spot” that conforms to modern fashion sensibilities. The Lady Beat is the very first model created specifically for women by the Armin Strom Manufacture.
